Abstract: An abstract is a comprehensive summary of the paper. In this section, the author(s) provides brief description of research aims, method, and result as well as conclusion. An abstract, in English, should appear on the top of the first page, after the names of the author and the information of the author's affiliation. Abstract is commenced with the word Abstract (in bold) followed by colon. Abstract is a single paragraph, without indentation, that summarizes the key points of the manuscript in 200 to 250 words. In other words, abstract should reflect the whole paper. Avoid quotation and citing references in the abstract.

Right
Indent:
1.5 cm

INTRODUCTION

(font size 12, single space)

This section should discuss in-depth the research background, theories pertinent to the research and preliminary data justifying the urgency in solving a problem, problem identification, problem formulation, research purpose as well as advantages. A background should reflect expectation and reality. A background fundamentally describes the condition or situation underlying the research; in that there is a gap between the reality and what is expected from the existing condition.

The literature review presented in this section should be written in detail and comprehensively. It should contain the latest references (see the reference section for detailed description). All references used in this section must be made in compliance with APA.

METHODS

(font size 12, single space)

This section clearly explains the types of research conducted. Moreover, the author(s) needs to explain the steps taken in the research and refers them to the related theories. The author should also explain the data collection techniques and research instruments (including validity and reliability of the instrument). Further, description of the research subjects or objects is provided in this section. If applicable, population and sampling techniques should also be described.

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

(font size 12, single space)

This section presents the detailed results of the research clearly. Moreover, analysis and generalisation of the research results are described in this section. It should also include the theories supporting the data analysis results. The numbers presented in this section should be interpreted and connected to the research purpose.

Tables and figures should be placed close after their first reference or close to the location of their first mentioned in the text. Table headings are centred above the table, whilst, figure captions are centred below the figure. Table headings and content as well as figure captions are to be written in Times New Roman 10 pt., single space. All tables and figures must be orderly numbered as follows: Figure 1, Figure 2, Table 1 and Table 2. The following are the examples for Table 1 and Figure 1.

Table 1. Number of Survey Respondents by Language Taught

No.	Language	Number of Teachers
1	Arabic	22
2	English	96
3	French	17
4	German	25
5	Indonesian	104
6	Japanese	14
Total Number		281

Figure 1. Stages of the Discovery Learning

Do not write the caption on the figure. Minimum figures' resolution is 200 dpi. Tables and figures which are not cited in the text should not be presented.

CONCLUSION

(font size 12, single space)

This section presents concise conclusion of the main points of the paper and the authors' point of view on the research results. In addition, the author(s) should include the evidence and quantitative data obtained from analysis results.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

(font size 12, single space)

This section is the final part of the paper before reference. This is where authors extend their gratitude to the person or institution supporting them in the presentation by awarding research grant.

REFERENCES

(font size 12, single space)

List of references must follow A.P.A. style 7th Edition. It is suggested that the author(s) use a Reference Manager Programme (such as Mendeley Reference Manager, EndNote, etc.) for this section. It is also suggested that the author(s) cite articles published in the last 10 years. There is no limitation of year for the books cited, however, the latest publications are preferred. The following are samples of reference list.
