Subject: RESEARCH HOUR: Tanong Mo, Sagot Namin!

Date: May 5, 2025

The promotion of a research-driven culture in the Schools Division Office of Panabo City is vital in ensuring that policies, programs, and classroom practices are responsive to learners' needs and grounded in evidence. To support this, the SDO Panabo City will be launching "RESEARCH HOUR: Tanong Mo, Sagot Namin!", a dedicated daily time slot where educators can raise concerns, seek guidance, and clarify issues related to their research initiatives.

This initiative will foster a supportive environment where teachers feel empowered to pursue quality and relevant research with confidence. By providing timely and accessible technical assistance, this program supports the Division's continuous improvement efforts and contributes to the realization of DepEd's vision for quality, equitable, and research-based education.

Specifically, the program aims to:

1. Provide regular and accessible platform for teachers and researchers to raise queries or seek guidance on various aspects of research, including proposal development, methodology, data analysis, and reporting.
2. Support the timely completion of school-based and division-initiated research studies by addressing issues and concerns as they arise.
3. Enhance research competence among teacher-researchers through consistent mentoring and technical assistance.
4. Promote research culture by fostering open dialogue and collaboration among educators and research focal persons.
5. Encourage the alignment of school-based research with the Basic Education Research Agenda (BERA), learning recovery, and local education needs.
