Enclosure 4. Guidelines for School Paper Contest

Guidelines for School Paper Contest

a. Process Observed by Region XI on School Paper

In the pursuit of academic integrity and journalistic excellence, the use of a plagiarism checker in school paper publication is an essential quality assurance measure. As campus journalism aims to develop critical thinking, originality, and ethical writing among students, ensuring that all written outputs are authentic and properly attributed is crucial.

b. Objectives of the Process Flow

- i. To establish process flow in the submission of school papers from the Division Offices to achieve orderly and organized selection of entries for the NSPC
- ii. To ensure school paper adheres to standards in journalism like the content, layout, and anti-plagiarism rules
- iii. To showcase and recognize the best School Papers in Davao Region

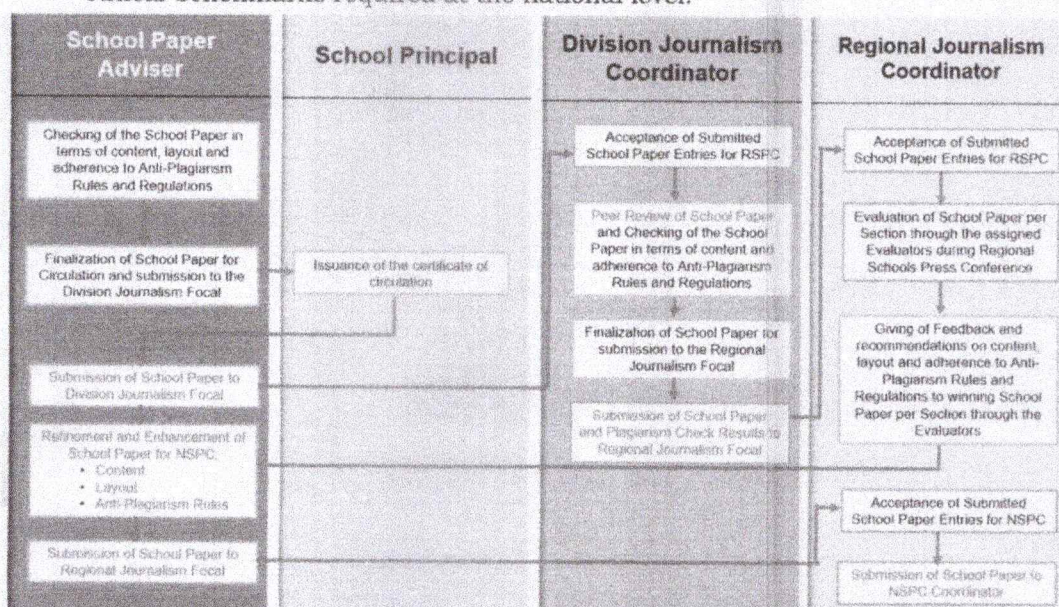

c. Process Flow

- 1) The Davao Region School Paper Contest follows a structured and systematic process to ensure quality, originality, and compliance with established editorial and anti-plagiarism standards as school papers progress from the school level to the National Schools Press Conference (NSPC).
- 2) The process begins with the School Paper Adviser, who is responsible for the initial checking of the school paper. This includes assessing the content, layout, and strict adherence to anti-plagiarism rules and regulations. School Paper Adviser may use available online plagiarism checkers like Grammarly, SmallSEOTools, Quilbot, Duplichecker, etc. Once the school paper meets these requirements, it is finalized for circulation and submitted to the School Principal for approval.
- 3) The School Principal, upon verification of the content, issues a certificate of circulation, which signifies that the school paper is ready for submission to the Division Journalism Focal Person.
- 4) At the division level, the Division Journalism Focal accepts the school paper and performs thorough evaluation, reviewing again the content and adherence to anti-plagiarism standards. The Division will conduct plagiarism check using online plagiarism checker. Once verified, the paper and plagiarism check results are endorsed to the Schools Division Superintendent (SDS) for official submission to the Regional Journalism Focal.
- 5) The Regional Journalism Focal then accepts the school paper and subjects it to rigorous evaluation by assigned evaluators during the Regional Schools Press Conference (RSPC). The evaluators provide detailed feedback and recommendations, particularly on content quality, layout, and originality, ensuring that only the most exemplary entries per section are identified as winners.

- 6) Following the RSPC, winning school papers undergo another round of refinement and enhancement in preparation for the NSPC. The School Paper Adviser is once again responsible for refining the paper based on evaluator feedback—improving content, redesigning layout, and ensuring full compliance with anti-plagiarism standards.
- 7) Once enhanced, the school paper is submitted directly to the Regional Journalism Focal, who will conduct a final review before endorsing the entry to the Regional Director for certification. The certified school paper is then submitted to the NSPC Coordinator for national-level competition.
- 8) This process highlights the collaborative effort among advisers, principals, division and regional officials, and evaluators to uphold high journalistic standards and integrity in campus publications. It ensures that school papers not only reflect student voice and creativity but also meet professional and ethical benchmarks required at the national level.
